INFANT FOODS ARE DECRIED

The keynote of all of yesterday's papers and discussions in both the afternoon and evening sessions at the conference of the American Academy of Medicine on the Prevention of Infant Mortality in New Haven, was that ignorance and poverty are the most serious and fatal causes of infant mortality, and at the bottom of all other causes. In the afternoon session, which was given up to the medical phases of the problem, some of the most frequent and formidable causes of infant mortality were treated at length, among which the discussion of alcoholism, tuberculosis and infants' diet were the chief features of the discussions. Most emphatic protest was made by various of the speakers against artificial feeding of infants, all speakers strongly pleading for breast feeding, and substitute foods of all kinds were entirely condemned, cow's milk in all cases being declared as preferable.

Dr. J. H. Mason Knox, Jr., associate of pediatrics of the Johns Hopkins Medical School, spoke about the damaging influence of alcoholism of the parents on the health of the child. Among the factors directly and indirectly destructive to the life of infants of most civilized countries, is acute and chronic alcoholism of the parents," he declared.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, an eminent and well known author and lecturer, most emphatically declared himself against artificial feeding of infants, especially that by "so-called scientific substitutes of maternal milk." "Cow's milk is bad enough," said Dr. Hutchinson, "but all the so-called babies' foods, especially the widely advertised ones, are worse, without exception. If mother's or wet nurse milk cannot be had, cow's milk is preferable."

Excessive child bearing was pointed out by Dr. Alice Hamilton of Hull House, Chicago, as one of the causes of infant mortality, showing from statistics collected from the study of 1,600 families that the death rate of infants increases much out of proportion to that of the birth rate in large families under the same hygienic conditions.

All Classes Privileged That Buy Clothing of Caesar Misch, Inc. Nowadays we hear much of the privileged classes whose wealth brings them liberal credit, so that they may buy what they wish by saying "Charge it." Any man or woman within reach of the Caesar Misch, Inc. Cheerful Credit Clothing Store has the same advantage that ready cash brings. It is not only unnecessary, but it is placing an unwarranted hardship to wait and save money until enough is accumulated to dress the family seasonably and stylishly. Commence wearing the clothing you and your family need today, walk into Caesar Misch's, select what is necessary and say "Charge it." Big payments are not asked, the amounts are very small, so much so that the purchase of clothing in this manner has no appreciable effect towards lessening the weekly or monthly income. Caesar Misch, Inc. is a great big clothing store which has the latest in everything in wearing apparel, and sells by the very latest methods. Extra bargains are a common occurrence.

Heavy ribbed ottoman and moire silks are being used for the construction of the separate coats.
